October 2018

A lovely drop of rain for most people in early October will do some good for the gardens and for the farmers across the state. Spring is a hopeful time of year to be looking forward. There are fond memories for some also when looking back. The 'good old days' were not all good but there were plenty of good times and good things to remember. The Local Studies Group showcase in the Aberdeen Library has been recently filled with some fabulous, interesting items from the old days. More details over the page. It is well worth a special trip to the Library for a look. Take your grandkids in and impress them with how much you know about 'The Old Days'.

~ Invitation ~

*The Aberdeen Local Studies Group invites anyone interested in “old things”
to call at the front room of The Aberdeen Library
and view their latest display
of items that are on loan to the group.*

Most of the ordinary, everyday items are no longer in regular use today but will bring back some memories from the past.

*Maybe you never used them but your grandmother
could have had such articles in her home.*

*Among the display there are several
old kerosene lamps, glass fly traps,
a “Penny Lick” from the Victorian Era,
assorted glass eye baths,
old Bakelite records, milk savers and an inkwell with a school days nib pen.*

Show your grandchildren the library display and share your memories with them.

*What do you still hold on to from the past,
even though you will never use them again?*

The Local Studies Group Display can be viewed during Aberdeen Library hours:
Tuesday 10.00 am - 2.30 pm
Wednesday 2.00 pm - 6.00 pm
Friday 11.30 am - 1.00 pm
2.00 pm - 5.30 pm
